Course prerequisites: Admission to Graduate School of Education in CIMM or CISL program. Completion of ALL other courses in these programs. Possible exceptions: Concurrent enrollment in EDRS 590 or elective or permission of instructor. This is the capstone course for the M.Ed. in Multilingual/Multicultural Education and, as such, represents the culminating experience in this graduate program.

Course Schedule: This course is offered each Spring and Fall Semester.

Catalog Description

This course provides a culminating experience that synthesizes and applies the essential elements of second language teaching and learning. Emphasizes the teacher as a change agent through critical inquiry into practice. Aims to promote collaboration between ESL or FL and grade-level teachers to advance the achievement of English and second language learners and language minority students.

All students will obtain and use a GMU Email account with access to the Internet. GMU makes these accounts available and provides training at no cost to students.
Rationale

This capstone course aims to have program candidates synthesize, evaluate, and reflect on the essential elements of what they have learned in the M.Ed. program and apply these to their own teaching. If candidates are not currently in the classroom, they will be asked to collaborate with a teacher who is. A major focus of the course is the nurturing of teacher-leaders through critical inquiry into educational practices that have an impact on culturally and linguistically diverse students. This inquiry will have as its purpose to help increase student learning and achievement among English language learners, language minority students, and foreign language learners.

In the capstone course, candidates become part of a learning and research community by sharing with others what they have learned through applying research to practice. Teachers no longer work alone; schools have seen an increase in teacher teams working with student cohorts. ESL and FL teachers are often a part of a grade-level team and, as such, are responsible for informing general education teachers about how to help English language and foreign language learners participate in grade-level classes.

Overview of Course

Essential elements of this course include: reflection on professional growth; collaboration; Action Research through field work, problem solving and innovations in teaching; applications of technology; and presentation skills. Candidates will collaborate with peers to identify a research question in curriculum, instruction and assessment and design an Action Research Project that investigates the question. The Action Research Project and the presentation on the project should use technology to facilitate learning as well as professional development. Candidates are especially encouraged to develop instructional and assessment models to be shared with other teachers, including general education, grade-level teachers who are relatively unfamiliar with second language teaching approaches. Candidates will experiment with Action Research approaches that address a real-life need demonstrated by an actual group of teachers and/or students. In addition, candidates will engage in reflection and self-evaluation of their own performance through a portfolio assessment process and peer and self-assessment activities.

Course requirements consist of an Action Research Project, an In-Class Presentation, and a Reflective Portfolio, rather than paper/pencil examinations. Each candidate will be required to prepare a professional teaching portfolio in this course. Portfolio guidelines will be provided, and portfolios must indicate reflection on professional growth, establishment of personal goals, and evidence of leadership. Each course requirement will be evaluated using a scoring rubric.
Course Objectives

Candidates enrolled in this course will:

1. Reflect on the personal and professional change process as a result of completing this degree program;

2. Work as change agents by collaborating with ESL, FL, and grade-level teachers to make improvements in the education of English and foreign language learners and language minority students;

3. Develop professional presentation skills using technology;

4. Identify a student learning need or challenge and pose a research question for addressing the need in a classroom setting;

5. Collect, analyze, and interpret data to address the need;

6. Propose and apply innovative, research-based approaches to instruction aimed at meeting the need; and

7. Prepare a professional portfolio with evidence of reflection, goal-setting, and self-assessment.

Description of Course Requirements

1. Action Research Project

Candidates will follow the seven steps of the Action Research Process (Sagor, 2000) to improve and refine their teaching. Teachers will collaborate in teams to identify and address the learning needs of a specific target population (e.g., Grade 9, Level II Spanish class) based on research questions generated and agreed upon by a team. The educational setting will typically be at the individual teacher’s classroom level. Sample learning needs may be: (1) reading strategies; (2) vocabulary development; (3) oral language development; or (4) a need for innovations in curriculum design and/or assessment approaches.

Candidates will: find a focus; base the focus on sound theory; identify a research question; collect data to address the question; analyze the data; report the data, and establish an action plan to help improve teaching and students’ learning. Teachers are encouraged to demonstrate applications of technology to their Action Research Project, such as through the use of PowerPoint slides, computer-generated instructional materials, and uses of the Internet.

2. In-Class Presentation

Candidates will demonstrate their professional presentation skills for peer feedback and discussion in class. Candidates will make a presentation on their Action Research Project and lead a question/answer session with their classmates. Teachers will be evaluated on their ability to design and deliver a presentation rather than on the content of the presentation itself. Skills for design and delivery include: organization, use of visuals, gestures, and technology; oral language communication skills; use of humor; and engagement of the participants.

3. Reflective Portfolio

Each M.Ed. candidate in this course will submit a professional portfolio based on the following criteria: (1) a self-assessment component that shows how the candidate has changed as a result of completing this M.Ed. program and developed as a leader and change agent in his/her own instructional setting; (2) a selective sampling of indicators of the personal change process (not to include EVERY project the candidate has ever produced) and evidence of application of research to practice; and (3) goal-setting for future professional development and change. The reflective portfolio will be submitted in a 3-ring binder, printed format. The portfolio will be evaluated through both formative (mid-term) and summative (final) assessments. Candidates are encouraged to obtain feedback on their portfolios from peers in this class as well as from the instructor.
