Course Description: This two hour course is focused on the problems, issues, and possibility of bringing change to education. This is the culminating course in the ASTL program and in it, we will explore the influences on the education system from many levels, including, the national, state, local, community, school, and classroom levels. This course asks the students to investigate the implications of these influences for school improvement. Students enrolled in this course will have opportunities to reflect on their own experiences and the possibility of becoming agents of educational change.

Course Outcomes:

In this course the students will:

1. Analyze the factors, perspectives and entities that influence educational change.
2. Examine their respective stance toward their roles as change agents.
3. Write reflectively about personal experiences of change.
4. Inquire into the perspectives of others on a current topic/innovation in education.
5. Examine their own use of an educational innovation (i.e. prepare a proposal for a grant to a funding agency).
6. Participate in small and large discussions related to general presentation topics.

Relationship of EDUC 615 to ASTL and NBPTS Propositions

This course is part of the ASTL core, and is aligned with the following GSE priorities: Advanced Studies, Reflective and Research-based practice, and Research and Scholarship. The course is also aligned with the NBPTS five core propositions, which provide the guiding principles for what teachers should know and be able to do. Specifically, this course is aligned with Proposition 4: Teachers think systematically about their practice and learn from experience, and Proposition 5: Teachers are members of learning communities.

Assignments

1. Innovation Project (45% of grade)

- Students will prepare a proposal for funding an innovation for their classroom or school, including:
 - Following the guidelines of the funding agency
 - Obtaining any and all appropriate signatures in their school

Students will present their proposals to the class. The presentation may take a variety of formats (Outcomes 1, 2, 5, and 6). Date due: May 4.

2. Individual reflective journal entries (20% of grade)

- Students will engage in reflective journal writing. Email is to be used as the vehicle for reflective journal writings, which will include reactions to readings and class discussions. Journal entries should be based in objective fact and personal experience, and be thoughtful and reflective on one's own stance toward educational practice and educational change (Outcomes 2, 3, 4, and 6).

Please use the following questions to guide your reflections:

- What issue(s) did I identify from the readings or from classroom discussion?
- What was my initial reaction to this reading or discussion point?
- Why do I have this reaction? In what is it based?
- How do I specifically agree or disagree with the point?
- What does my reaction tell me about why I do what I do as a practitioner?

3. Participation (15% of grade) (Outcomes 1, 2, 3, 4, and 6)

4. Annotated Bibliography (a minimum of 10 articles) (20% of grade) Due date: May 4.

- Locate articles/websites on an innovation in education. These articles will serve as the foundation for your proposal. These summaries will be shared with the other students in the class and an annotated bibliography will be submitted to me on May 4.
- Use APA format: Author, Publication date, Title, Journal name or book publisher name and a short paragraph annotating of the salient points made by the author(s) that are relevant to the educational innovation you are studying.

Note: many education journals and periodicals are now available online, including Educational Leadership, Kappan, Harvard Education Review, Teachers College Record, Educational Forum, American School Board Journal, and Education Week.
