

Science Education Travel Scholarship Application

College of Education and Human Development
George Mason University

Students already admitted to the Ph.D. in Education, Science Education Leadership program are eligible to apply for a CEHD Science Education Travel Scholarship to be awarded during the spring semester for the following academic year. To apply, please complete this application and attach a one-page professional vision statement (as indicated below). This scholarship is available on a competitive basis. Criteria to be considered for this award includes: clarity of application, your professional vision statement, exhibiting College of Education and Human Development Dispositions for a Career Educator*, enrollment in at least 3 graduate credit hours of course work in your program during the current semester, and recommendations from the faculty review committee.

Name:

Date:

G#:

Email Address:

Mailing Address:

Phone (home):

Phone (cell):

How many graduate credits towards your Ph.D. degree have you completed?

What is your CEHD professional specialization?

What is your secondary emphasis?

What is your current position of employment, employer, and FT or PT?

For which conference are you requesting support? Note: The conference must be a national conference that is more than 100 miles from your residence.

Conference (organization/title):

Dates:

Role in conference (e.g. presenter, attendee):

Location:

Attach a one-page statement about your professional vision that provides the following information.

1. Why do you want to attend the above conference?
2. How will this conference contribute to your development as a science education leader?
3. Itemized budget (include conference registration, travel, lodging, food, etc.)

Student signature:

Date:

Submit applications to Mary Wilson, A 307 Robinson Hall

For more information, contact Donna R. Sterling, Science Coordinator, dsterlin@gmu.edu