COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course is designed to familiarize students with fundamental concepts and theories of group counseling. A mastery of basic interpersonal and facilitation skills will be emphasized inclusive of issues related to racial and ethnic diversity, gender, and social justice. The course includes an intensive laboratory group experience to facilitate interpersonal awareness, sensitivity, and skills that are critical to being an effective group counselor/ group therapist.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

1. Gain personal awareness of one's own interpersonal style.
2. Learn various process and outcome issues that structure group experience.
3. Acquire and demonstrate group counseling skills in class demonstrations and experiences.
4. Learn about culturally diverse populations and effective group interventions with those specific populations.
5. Gain an understanding of different K-12 students and clients that may participate in groups and learn about how to effectively intervene with those groups.
6. Study ways to evaluate the group experience.
7. Experience group process personally and gain insight, awareness and enhanced interpersonal skills.
8. Begin to develop a personal style as a group facilitator.

RELATIONSHIP TO COURSES AND PROGRAM GOALS AND PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS:

Group Counseling is a key issue in counseling and provides a core course in the Counseling and Development Program. It addresses the program goals and mission and provides information about how to more effectively work with systems and facilitate personal, social, and institutional change through group work. This will provide a core foundation in highlighting self awareness, interpersonal skills and awareness, and system skills as an advocate and change agent including important skills necessary in practicum and internship. CACREP standards that are met through this course include: foundations of counseling, contextual dimensions of counseling, knowledge and skill requirements, and clinical instruction. In addition EDCD 608 fulfills the requirements and standards for Group Counseling in the following professional organizations: Council for the Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP) Section II K.f: Theoretical and experiential understanding of group purpose, development, dynamics, counseling theories, group counseling methods and skills, and other group approaches, American Counseling Association(ACA), Virginia Departments of Education and Health Professions.

BLACKBOARD EXPECTATIONS AND ON-LINE PROTOCOL:

1. Protocol for posting threads and contributing to an online discussion are as follows:
  - a. It is expected that every student will make a posting following each class in accordance with the schedule outlined in the assignment section above. The first postings will start directly after the first class. Postings that do not meet the timelines and specifications will not be counted for that day.
  - b. Postings should be a minimum of 1 short paragraph and a maximum of 2 short paragraphs.
  - c. Avoid postings that are limited to “I agree” or “great idea”, etc. (These comments will be viewed as non-postings). Support your statements with concepts from research, readings or by sharing related examples or experiences.
  - d. Stay on target with the discussion – don’t go on extreme tangents.
  - e. Build on others’ responses to create threads.
  - f. Bring in related prior knowledge (experiences, prior coursework, research, readings, etc.)
  - g. Use proper etiquette (e.g., APA language style.)

2. Tips for posting to discussion forums:
  - a. How do I post successfully? How do I get my classmates to read my postings?
    - i. Think of assignment in terms of a dialogue and not a writing exercise. You should engage yourself in a discussion about the issues raised in class, textbook and readings and/or other related issues to the course.
    - ii. Before you post – think about the assignment first and take notes before you read other responses.
    - iii. Think of a thesis and how you can support it.
    - iv. Read other postings after you’ve written yours.
    - v. Respond to one that contradicts or supports your own thoughts; one that is lacking evidence or seems to fall short on an aspect important to you.
    - vi. In your response, you can also turn your own thoughts into questions; offer your argument; play the devil’s advocate; ask challenging questions.
    - vii. If you are the first to post: post with a careful analysis and strong (bold) argument (thesis) and open-ended questions to invite dialogue.
    - viii. It helps readers of your posting if you include a specific quotation from the message to which you’re responding.
    - ix. Choose your entry title carefully. Make it compelling.
    - x. Once you have posted, check back regularly to see if anybody has replied to you. Get the dialogue going.

3. Rubric for evaluating on-line discussions:

Weekly On-line Discussions Rubric
Criteria	Excellent	Good	Average	Poor
Responsiveness to discussion and demonstration of knowledge and understanding	Very clear that the class session, readings and topics were understood and	Class session, readings and topics were understood and incorporated into	Postings have questionable relationship to session topics and readings	Not evident that session topics and readings were understood and/or not gained from each class session and readings	incorporated well into responses	responses		incorporated into the discussion

Adherence to on-line protocols	All on-line protocols followed	1 on-line protocol not adhered to	2-3 on-line protocols not adhered to	4 or more on-line protocols not adhered to

4. Evaluation criteria for facilitating an on-line class discussion:

- a. The discussants will demonstrate an ability to engage the audience in a discussion that is relevant to the topics of the class sessions and related concepts. This can be done in a variety of ways including but not limited to:
  - i. Posing engaging questions
  - ii. Eliciting responses
  - iii. Engaging the learners in an activity or task
- b. The discussants will demonstrate the ability to effectively organize the discussion. This includes:
  - i. Keeping the discussion focused on the topic
  - ii. Providing structure (beginning arguments, closing arguments, wrap-up or synthesis)
  - iii. Staying within the timeframe allotted for discussion
  - iv. Using effective media
- c. The discussants will demonstrate the ability to respond to questions effectively. The discussants will demonstrate the ability to relate the concepts discussed in class sessions to personal and professional experience by using examples from every day practices.
