Course Description

A. Prerequisites: Admission to PhD program, or permission of instructor.

B. Prepares participants with a working knowledge of discourse analysis and its application to ethnographic and qualitative research in education. We will focus on a classroom discourse analysis a resource to improve classroom interaction and as an analytic tool for a social analysis of education in multilingual multicultural educational settings.

C. Expanded Description: Specifically we will draw on the resources of systemic functional linguistics, genre/text studies, interactional sociolinguistics and critical social theory to understand how linguistic features of texts constitute and are constituted by social, cultural and local relations, processes and contexts in which they are embedded. Using a seminar format, participants will 1) discuss readings on Critical Discourse Analysis (CDA) methodology, key theoretical constructs, and published CDA analysis in ethnographic studies; 2) engage in collaborative analysis of multi-modal texts from popular culture and the media and analysis of discourse in educational settings. Through these activities we aim to use CDA to construct systematic, insightful and power interpretations of education.

Learner Outcomes

This course is designed to enable students to:

1. Become familiar with major contributions from Critical Discourse Analysis CDA in educational research
2. To become more fully aware of the connections between discourse and race/ethnicity identity, linguistic variety, social class, gender, and sexual identity in U.S. and international educational contexts with a focus on globalization, immigration and immigrant communities.

3. Gain experience in using (CDA) tools with examples from popular culture and the media.

4. Use discourse analysis to reflect on and improve classroom interaction.

5. Find examples of discourse analysis in their area of specialization

6. To become aware of the “hidden codes” promoted by interests within and external to education.

7. Promote a critical literacy involving writing, reading, presentation, organization, and research skills.

Nature of Course Delivery:

This course is a seminar format which includes professor and student-led discussions of the readings, activities to analyze multi-modal discourse from popular media and educational settings and collaborative projects to analyze classroom interaction. Students are expected to complete all class readings prior to each session so as to engage in active dialogue and sharing of ideas. Each session students will lead discussions on the readings and provide examples (textual or multi-modal) to illustrate concepts from the readings from the news and popular media. In addition students will be expected to work on one written text throughout the class (e.g. textbook, survey, documents, online chat, news stores) or transcript of an oral conversation, discussion, interview or classroom interaction for a final course project.

Student Expectations

- Students must adhere to the guidelines of the George Mason University Honor Code [See http://academicintegrity.gmu.edu/honorcode/].

- Students with disabilities who seek accommodations in a course must be registered with the George Mason University Office of Disability Services (ODS) and inform their instructor, in writing, at the beginning of the semester [See http://ods.gmu.edu/].

- Students must follow the university policy for Responsible Use of Computing [See http://universitypolicy.gmu.edu/1301gen.html].
• Students are responsible for the content of university communications sent to their George Mason University email account and are required to activate their account and check it regularly. All communication from the university, college, school, and program will be sent to students solely through their Mason email account.

• Students must follow the university policy stating that all sound emitting devices shall be turned off during class unless otherwise authorized by the instructor.

• Students are expected to exhibit professional behaviors and dispositions at all times.

Campus Resources

• The George Mason University Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) staff consists of professional counseling and clinical psychologists, social workers, and counselors who offer a wide range of services (e.g., individual and group counseling, workshops and outreach programs) to enhance students’ personal experience and academic performance [See http://caps.gmu.edu/].

• The George Mason University Writing Center staff provides a variety of resources and services (e.g., tutoring, workshops, writing guides, handbooks) intended to support students as they work to construct and share knowledge through writing [See http://writingcenter.gmu.edu/].

Professional Standards and CEHD Core Values

In 2006, the College of Education and Human Development (CEHD) adopted five core values on which to focus: collaboration, ethical leadership, innovation, research-based practice and social justice. This course supports each of these values by providing multiple learning experiences that necessitate collaboration. Students are afforded opportunities to reflect on their leadership roles in their work as researchers and educational practitioners in their work and learning contexts; to utilize discourse analysis to design and engage in innovative research and improve classroom practice, particularly with respect to social justice.

Emergency Procedures:

You are encouraged to sign up for emergency alerts by visiting the website https://alert.gmu.edu. There are emergency posters in each classroom explaining what to do in the event of crises. Further information about emergency procedures exists on http://www.gmu.edu/service/cert.

Assignments
High quality work (i.e., “A” work) is expected on all assignments and in class participation. All assignments must be completed. For full consideration, all Assignments are due to the professor electronically in the digital drop box prior to the beginning of class on the day they are due. Blackboard will not accept deposits after the due date and time of class. Late assignments will not be accepted without making prior arrangements with the professor. All written assignments are to be word-processed using Times Roman 12 pt font, double-spaced and submitted electronically on our class Blackboard drop box at http://courses.gmuedu/. You need to install Java at java.com to upload assignments. Title each assignment with your last name and the name of the project/assignment. Also bring a copy of the completed assignment to class for discussion. If you are leading the discussion, please upload the handout to Blackboard on the date of the class session before your presentation date or provide handouts to the class. Use APA style for all assignments (unless your field of specialization uses another style sheet, i.e. MLJ).
