Address: 21000 Education Court, Ashburn VA 20148

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Using a reading/writing workshop as a framework, participants will investigate principles of reading and writing instruction that prove to be essential for the writing, reading and analytical development in secondary students.

COURSE PURPOSE AND INTENDED AUDIENCE:

This course is intended to provide secondary teachers will the opportunity to examine curriculum, instructional strategies, and principles of reading and writing instruction. In addition, the course provides the opportunity for participants to investigate the use of a reading and writing workshop instructional framework in their own classrooms and in lab classrooms. Participants will also develop their writing skills and expertise in young adult literature while participating in collaborative writing groups and book clubs.

COURSE FORMAT:

The course will consist of a variety of learning formats to include:

- Instructor led discussions and presentation of demonstration lessons
- Hands-on practice in lab classrooms
- Facilitated online discussions and forums
- Small group writing conferences
- Each week of class, participants will participate in an online learning community for the completion of coursework and homework.

PARTICIPANT OUTCOMES:

Having completed this course successfully:

- Participants will understand and apply the following essential principles of reading and writing instruction:
 1. To become a better writer and reader, students need consistent, predictable time to read and write independently.
 2. For students to understand the habits of effective readers and writer, habits of mind must be modeled for them by a writer and avid reader, their teacher.

3. Students must define engaging purposes and real audiences for their writing that help to shape composition, diction, and voice.
4. Students need consistent, targeted feedback on their reading, writing, and analysis skills.
5. Individual conferences are one of the essential structures for assessing students' needs and areas of growth.
6. Portfolios are essential structures for students to self-assess and reflect on their needs and growth.
7. Consistent minilessons provide targeted instruction to meet the needs of the learners in the reading and writing workshop community.
8. Building a community of learners builds an environment in which, "respect for the intelligence of every learner is the starting place for all activity, and where all learners are expected and required to take responsibility for their own learning as well as for assisting others to learn." (Blau 2000)
9. Participants will design and create a reading/writing workshop in their classroom.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS, PERFORMANCE-BASED ASSESSMENTS, EVALUATION CRITERIA, AND GRADING SCALE:

Course Expectations:

- Attend all class sessions and actively participate in class discussions, small groups, and exploration activities.
- For each class meeting, there are two types of learning activities that follow:
 - Reflection assignment
 - Participation in an online learning community including discussions and forums.

Assignments:

- Participants will create a Literacy Journey Portfolio consisting of reflections on each of the outcomes of the course. The portfolio consists of an initial reflection describing participants' philosophies and practices in regard to reading and writing instruction. Additional reflections are created throughout the course based on each learning outcome. Each reflection contains artifacts that are collected over the length of the course.
- Participants will read and review one professional text.
- Participants will read and evaluate Young Adult Literature.
- Participate in a writing group bringing a draft of a sample paper you have written as a model for your students or another writing piece of your choosing.

Final Portfolio	April	80 points
