COURSE DESCRIPTION
Covers formulation of coherent framework for ascertaining good, right, and just; and for assessing evidence and reason underlying positions and arguments. Examines ethical issues in exercise, fitness, and health promotion.

COURSE OBJECTIVES
The study of ethics deals with the fundamental issues of right and wrong, good and bad, and moral duty or obligation.
To broaden students’ perspective about ethics
To develop students’ ability to present and critique ethical arguments
To practice ethical problem solving
To examine how ethical principles can be applied to exercise, fitness, health, and leisure

PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATION PRINCIPLES
Courses offered in the Sport and Recreation Studies (SRST) graduate program are guided by the principles of the Commission of Sport Management Accreditation (COSMA). COSMA (2010, p. 1) “bases its accrediting process on principles, rather than standards.” The eight recommended principles are:
• outcomes assessment;
• strategic planning;
• curriculum;
• faculty;
• scholarly and professional activities;
• resources;
• internal and external relationships; and
• educational innovation.

COURSE OVERVIEW
This course will focus on examining ethical principles and practices in the exercise, fitness, and leisure profession. Students will examine current ethical issues in these fields and apply concepts learned from this class towards these issues. This graduate level class is structured in a seminar setting and classroom dialogue and discussion is critical components of instruction.

NATURE OF COURSE DELIVERY
Face to face
REQUIRED READINGS

EVALUATION
Students should attend all class sections, actively participate in class discussions, and fulfill all assignments. Students must turn in assignments at the beginning of class on the specified date due or they will receive no credit. Only students with extreme emergencies, a documented medical excuse or university-sponsored functions discussed with the professor prior to the due date will be given consideration for exception. Students must make copies of all written work submitted.

Literature review for research paper (50 points)
Each student will identify a current ethical problem in the exercise, fitness, or health promotion professions. The student will then conduct a literature review and interview professionals who have knowledge of this ethical challenge. The student must collect 8 primary sources for this assignment. The instructor will provide a worksheet that must be completed for each source.

Research paper (50 points)
Using the information from the literature review and the professional interviews, students will write a 15 – 20 page ethical dilemma research paper. The research paper also needs to incorporate concepts and information from classroom discussions and readings. Students will incorporate the text’s ethical dilemma framework into the paper.

Research presentation (50 points)
Each student will give a 15-minute presentation detailing the method and results of their research paper. The expectation is that each student will also describe in-depth, the ethical dilemma, possible solutions for its resolution, and how the issue was ultimately resolved.

Chapter critique (50 points)
Students will assess the central theme of each chapter they have been assigned. They will also be asked to evaluate the writing style sources utilized, and overall analysis and interpretations made by the author. The expectation is that students will discuss how the information presented relates to their own personal experiences.

Book review (50)
Each student will describe the central theme and main arguments presented by William Morgan in his book Why Sports Morally Matter. Students will also be expected to point out what they perceive as the strengths and weaknesses of the book in relation to the other readings in the course.
