COURSE DESCRIPTION

Identifies culturally, physically, emotionally, mentally, and demographically diverse populations and communities at risk. Covers implications for developing innovative programs and role of HFRR interventions.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

At the completion of this course students should be able to:

1. Define the concepts of vulnerability and resiliency
2. Identify factors that influence vulnerability and resiliency in populations and communities at-risk
3. Identify the conceptual models and themes associated with populations and communities at-risk
4. Identify and analyze structure and process in developing intervention programs
5. Identify resources that empower populations and communities at-risk and contribute to their resiliency

COURSE OVERVIEW

Using a multidisciplinary and experiential approach, this course will address concepts and issues relating to various communities and populations in at-risk environments. Particular attention will be devoted to the identification of vulnerable populations inclusive of cultural, physical, emotional, and demographic factors which impact on the diversity of these communities. Additional activities will provide students the opportunity to access their level of cultural competency. Students will examine real life factors which place a designated population at-risk and then develop a specific community-based programmatic intervention to address those identified risk factors. Student attendance is critical for presentations as well as for participation as an audience member. Work performance and class participation with assigned tasks are factored in this process. Absences for oral presentations will result in a deduction of 25 points from the total assignment value. Students will be held to the standards of the George Mason University Honor Code.

NATURE OF COURSE DELIVERY

Face to Face

REQUIRED READINGS

Shi, I. & Stevens, G. (2010). Vulnerable Populations in the United States. San Francisco, CA. Jossey-Bass.

Other readings as assigned.

EVALUATION (Rubrics will be discussed for assignments and projects)

- In-class assignments/Homework/Work Ethic (15%):
Small Group Projects/Oral presentations/Class Participation
- Individual Projects (20%):
Two independent activities completed by student relevant to class
- Intervention Strategy Proposal/Presentation (25%)
- Examinations: Mid-term: Objective Exam (15%) Final: Essay Exam (25%)

Requirements

- In-Class Assignments/Homework/Work Ethic: Students will work in small groups (e.g. Task Force) to facilitate understanding of various topics. In addition, student groups will present an oral review of assigned readings or studies to the class for discussion. Student attendance is critical for presentations and for participation as an audience member. Work performance and class participation with assigned tasks are factored in this process.
- Collective in-class and homework assignments carry significant grade point value. Note: Absences for oral presentations will result in a deduction of 25 points from the total assignment value.
- Individual Projects: Students will complete two individual projects. For the first project, all students must select and participate in an approved new leisure activity of his/her choice. This activity must have an organizational backing. For the second project, students will interview an elder in their family. Students will submit a one-paged typed summary, in correct format (see below) of each experience detailing (1) why they chose that activity (2) what they learned from it (3) how the activity was relevant to the class and its significance/connection to populations at risk. Student will share the leisure activity and key interview points with the class.
- Correct format for assignments, unless otherwise stated is as follows: Times New Roman font with 1.5 spacing. All submissions must have students full name with date and title of assignment. Multiple pages must be stapled upon submission.
- Intervention Strategy Proposal: The purpose of this project is to provide students with exposure to community-based organizations that work with populations at-risk. Students will select an organization or program in which to analyze/observe for the semester. During this time students will interact with the organization and speak with its leadership to identify a gap in current services where an intervention may be helpful. (Ideally, this project should be supportive of your major course of study). Students will then complete a written Plan of Action from which will be developed a short-term, “do-able” intervention strategy appropriate for this audience. This culminating intervention will be presented to the class in a five-eight minute oral presentation supported by a two-three page written proposal to be submitted.
- Independent Study Days: Assignments in this class involve community-based interaction. Independent Study days provide students the opportunity to make appointments/observe their designated community organization during “regular” business hours in order to complete assigned projects and the Intervention Proposal. This out of class study is considered class time for project development, the result of which will be reflected in your submitted Plan of Action.
- Examinations: The midterm will be objective in format. The final exam will be in essay or case study format.
