Course content includes, but is not limited to, the following: Internal and external sources of marketing information; Marketing theory and relationships to the sport industry; Marketing information systems; Industry segmentation; Marketing mix and strategies; Sport sponsorship, endorsements, promotions, fundraising; Sport licensing; Sport marketing/sponsorship plan, or research study; Basic marketing terminology; Competitor analysis; Product life cycle; Community, media, and customer relations; Sport sales principles and techniques; Direct and indirect sales; Consumer behavior; Revenue streams; and Image enhancement.

PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATION PRINCIPLES
Courses offered in the Sport and Recreation Studies (SRST) graduate program are guided by the principles of the Commission of Sport Management Accreditation (COSMA). COSMA (2010, p. 1) “bases its accrediting process on principles, rather than standards.” The eight recommended principles are:
• outcomes assessment;
• strategic planning;
• curriculum;
• faculty;
• scholarly and professional activities;
• resources;
• internal and external relationships; and
• educational innovation.

NATURE OF COURSE DELIVERY
Face-to-Face including: presentations, group discussions, individual meetings with the instructor, and formal student presentations.

REQUIRED READINGS

EVALUATION
This course will be graded on a point system, with a total of 100 possible points.

Research Paper – Using the information from the readings and your own research, students will write an 8-12 page paper on a topic covered within the required readings. The research paper should incorporate concepts and information from classroom discussions and readings. Research paper must include introduction, objective, discussion of literature relevant to topic, major findings and conclusion.

Research Paper Presentation - Visual support such as PowerPoint must be used and include introduction, objective, major findings and conclusion.

Participation - Students must attend class in order to participate in the discussions generated by the readings. Contribution will be evaluated based on number and quality of questions asked or answered and opinion provided when asked. If you miss class points will be deducted. Blackboard discussion participation is also required.

Chapter Presentations - Student will be asked to present in class some of the readings and turn in a two page summery of the chapters presented. As part of the presentation students should prepare three questions about the topic presented that they would like for the class to discuss.
