- B. UNIVERSITY CATALOG COURSE DESCRIPTION Advanced study of selected topics in education for students who have been admitted to the Counseling and Development program
- C. EXPANDED COURSE DESCRIPTION This course is designed to familiarize students with theory and practice related to counseling at-risk youth. A review of the ecological issues related to youth at-risk will be discussed and examined including issues of school failure and drop-out, teenage pregnancy and sexuality, substance abuse, violence, and juvenile delinquency. Cross-cultural factors related to youth at-risk will be explored as well as issues of social justice. The course will include a component on skill development to more effectively work with problems of youth identified as being at-risk.

NATURE OF COURSE DELIVERY

Face to face and weekly blackboard discussions.

LEARNER OUTCOMES OR OBJECTIVES

1. Gain increased awareness of the psychological, sociological, and ecological factors affecting at-risk youth.
2. Gain an increased understanding of the scope of the problems experienced by at-risk youth.
3. Understand the interrelationship of school and community agency counseling in providing effective interventions with at-risk youth.
4. Acquire awareness about the importance and development of prevention programs to address the problems of at-risk youth.
5. Gain skills to more effectively work with at-risk youth.
6. Understand the issues of multiculturalism as it applies to working with various at-risk youth populations.
7. Understand the issue of social justice as it applies to working with various at-risk youth populations.

8. Understand the issues of advocacy and leadership as a counselor as it applies to working with various at-risk youth populations.
9. Achieve a sense of personal awareness that promotes more effective counseling with at-risk youth populations.

PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS (CACREP)

Counseling youth identified as being at-risk is essential in being an effective school or community agency counselor. This course necessitates adherence to the program goals and mission and provides information and skill development about how to more effectively work with youth identified as being at-risk. The course will enhance self-awareness, and understanding of ecological factors contributing to the problems of youth at-risk, counseling skills, system skills, and advocacy and leadership skills that will be important in practicum and internship.

CACREP standards that are met through this course include: foundations of counseling, contextual dimensions of counseling, knowledge and skill requirements, and clinical instruction.
