UNIVERSITY CATALOG COURSE DESCRIPTION: Offers opportunity to view how language and culture shape realities, including perceptions of children as learners. Explores cultural constraints and transformative possibilities embedded within cultures.

COURSE DELIVERY METHOD: This course will be delivered online using synchronous and asynchronous formats via the Blackboard learning management system (LMS) housed in the MyMason portal. You will log in to the Blackboard course site using your Mason email name (everything before @masonlive.gmu.edu) and email password. The course site will be available on August 29th.

TECHNICAL REQUIREMENTS:

To participate in this course, students will need to satisfy the following technical requirements:

- High-speed Internet access with a standard up-to-date browser, either Internet Explorer or Mozilla Firefox is required (note: Opera and Safari are not compatible with Blackboard).
- Students must maintain consistent and reliable access to their GMU email and Blackboard, as these are the official methods of communication for this course.
- Students will need a headset microphone for use with Blackboard Collaborate conferencing tool.
- Students may be asked to create logins and passwords on supplemental websites and/or to download trial software to their computer or tablet as part of course requirements.
- The following software plug-ins for PCs and Macs, respectively, are available for free download:
 - Adobe Acrobat Reader: <http://get.adobe.com/reader/>
 - Windows Media Player: <http://windows.microsoft.com/en-US/windows/downloads/windows-media-player>
 - Apple QuickTime Player: www.apple.com/quicktime/download/

EXPECTATIONS:

- Course Participation: Active and consistent participation in the course as described in the individual course syllabus is extremely important for online courses. Students are expected to actively engage in all course activities throughout the semester, which include viewing of all course materials, completing course activities and assignments, and participating in course discussions and group interactions. The completion of all readings assigned for the course is assumed. Online courses will, at a minimum, have weekly requirements for student participation that can be documented by any or all of the following methods:
 - Submission/completion of assignments as specified by the professors
 - Communication with the professors
 - Active, meaningful, and respectful communication with peers

Remember, this course is not self-paced. There are specific deadlines and due dates listed in the CLASS SCHEDULE section of this syllabus to which you are expected to adhere. It is the student's responsibility to keep track of the weekly course schedule of topics, readings, activities and assignments due. In addition, students must log-in for all scheduled online synchronous meetings.

- Log-in Frequency: Expect to log in to this course at least 3 times a week to read announcements, participate in the discussions, and work on course materials. Students must also regularly check their GMU email for communications from the instructors.
- Course Schedule: Because asynchronous courses do not have a "fixed" meeting day, our sessions will generally start on Wednesday and finish on Tuesday. Synchronous meetings will be arranged as needed.
- Written Assignments: All formal written assignments will be evaluated for content and presentation. (Formal assignments do not include Blackboard discussions, class/course feedback, in-class reflections or journaling) The American Psychological Association, Sixth Edition (APA) style guide should be followed for formal written assignments. All written work unless otherwise noted must be completed on a word processor and should be proofread carefully. (Use spell check!) If students are not confident of their own ability to catch errors, they should have another person proofread their work. When in doubt, they should check the APA manual. Portions of the APA manual appear at the Style Manuals link on the Mason library web guide at <http://library.gmu.edu/resources/edu/>. Students may consult the Writing Center for additional writing support. Students will do the following:
 - Present ideas in a clear, concise, and organized manner. (Avoid wordiness and redundancy.)
 - Develop points coherently, definitively, and thoroughly.
 - Refer to appropriate authorities, studies, and examples to document where appropriate. (Avoid meaningless generalizations, unwarranted assumptions, and unsupported opinions.)
 - Use correct capitalization, punctuation, spelling, and grammar.
- Technical Competence: Students are expected to demonstrate competence in the use of all course technology. Students are expected to seek assistance if they are struggling with technical components of the course.

- Technical Issues: Students should expect that they could experience some technical difficulties at some point in the semester and should, therefore, budget their time accordingly.
- Mentoring/Advising: If you would like to schedule a one-on-one meeting to discuss course requirements, content or other course-related issues, and you are unable to come to the Mason campus, we can meet via telephone or web conference. Send an email to your instructors to schedule your one-on-one session and include your preferred meeting method and suggested dates/times.
- Netiquette: Our goal is to be collaborative, not combative. Experience shows that even an innocent remark in the online environment can be misconstrued. We suggest that you always re-read your responses carefully before you post them to encourage others from taking them as personal attacks. Be positive in your approach to others and diplomatic with your words. We will do the same. Remember, you are not competing with each other but sharing information and learning from one another as well as from the instructors.
- Accommodations: Online learners who require effective accommodations to insure accessibility must be registered with George Mason University Disability Services.

Culturally Relevant Teaching Project. This project is designed to provide you time and space to be creative with your curriculum content in designing meaningful, culturally relevant learning opportunities for your students in your classroom(s) or school. The curriculum design must address the five themes identified in Brown-Jeffy and Cooper’s (2011) conceptual framework of CRP: identity and achievement, equity and excellence, developmental appropriateness, teaching the whole child, and student-teacher relationships. (See the article for further explanation of these themes.) Obviously, many of you teach in SOL grade levels and have specific content (units) that “must be covered” so this is an opportunity to reconfigure your content into a broader culturally relevant framework that moves beyond “covering content” for the test; we challenge you to consider how to teach your students through the teaching of your content. Your curriculum could move outside of your classroom into the school or even the community. We encourage you to select something that is meaningful to you and your individual context.

Think about ways you can move students beyond “covering the content” to ways of “uncovering the content” within a culturally relevant framework. Similar to Maryellen Weimer’s view of “using content” to support student learning we are asking you to puzzle out how to do this work in your classroom/school/community. For example, you might redesign a unit that creates opportunities for students to grapple with broader social and cultural issues that impact their own lives today in ways that will help them make sense of and connect personally to the curriculum.

As part of your project, you will need to:

- Use a culturally relevant framework
- Identify the content and/or learning goals of the project
- Create a more learner-centered approach (connecting theory to practice)
- Assess student learning formatively (collecting student data about the learning process and their learning throughout the project)

Two Individual Reflections and Sharing:

- A. Reflection One (20 points)
 - B. Reflection Two (20 points)
 - C. Culturally Relevant Teaching Project Sharing using VoiceThread (20 points)
- Detailed guidelines will be distributed later.
