Course Requirements

All assignments should be turned in on the due date indicated in the schedule below via Blackboard (unless directed otherwise) by midnight. All projects must be typed, in 12-point font, with one inch margins, double-spaced, in Times New Roman font. Professional writing quality (including mechanics, organization, and content) is expected in each writing assignment, so please proofread carefully. Late papers and projects will not be accepted without penalty (10% each day late), excepting extraordinary circumstances. Please see instructor with questions and concerns about assignments, expectations, or seminar activities.

Class Participation (weekly):

Your attendance and participation at your school and seminar sessions is critical not only to your own success but also to that of your colleagues. Attendance and participation are expected in both your classroom and in seminars, but emergencies do arise. Please notify your cooperating teacher and your supervisor if you will be tardy or absent from your internship or seminar. Excessive late arrivals, lack of preparation, and any unsatisfactory absence – one that is not pre-arranged and/or approved by an instructor – will severely and negatively impact your grade. Projects late due to unsatisfactory absences will be accepted at the discretion of the instructor. Attendance and completion of seminar assignments can affect whether or not you successfully complete your internship. Please turn all electronic devices on silent when you enter class.

Becoming a Reflective Practitioner (weekly):

You are becoming a professional teacher. Be open to new experiences, ideas, challenges, and your continuous professional development.

It is your responsibility to come to class with insights, questions, comments, and concerns based on your internship experience. The quality of our conversations and your growth will be largely based on your commitment to engaging deeply with your student teaching experience. In order to reflect on your own learning and to be ready to discuss your insights, questions, you will need to keep a daily journal (physical or electronic) of your experience. This will be a private place for you to keep track of best practices, big ideas, and burning issues. In conjunction with your working portfolio, maintain a notebook in which you make substantive entries every day you are in the field. Entries may consist of a description of a particular experience that day, questions and concerns about the incident, and thoughts about how you will respond to this experience in the future. In addition, you will complete a reflection form (see Appendix A) each week. Post it on our Blackboard discussion site (see below).

Weekly Blackboard Discussion Board Participation (weekly):

You are expected to log on a several times a week to check for assignments, posts, and/or participate in online discussions. Your online commitment includes the following tasks:

- 1) Posting of your weekly reflection based on your internship experience (see Appendix A). Each week there will be a new thread available for your weekly reflection. The weekly reflection is due no later than Sunday by 11:59 pm.
- 2) Graduate students are required to locate and post a peer-reviewed article related to the topic of their weekly reflection and integrate what they glean from the article into their reflection. By the end of the semester you must have included a minimum of three articles in your reflection. Use this as an opportunity to start thinking about the challenges of teaching and learning that you would like to further explore in your research project next semester.
- 3) As a critical friend you will respond to your colleague's weekly reflection on Blackboard by the time we meet for class. Your responses to your colleague's posts should be respectful, intellectually curious, and go beyond the superficial (e.g. "That's great!").

Reflection about Lesson Plan (selected date):

On the selected date, you will show a portion (2-3 minutes) of a video you have uploaded to Edthena in class that you want to further evaluate, reflect on, and discuss with your peers. Come prepared to discuss, reflect, and ask and answer questions. This can be a lesson and/or video that you shared with your university supervisor. Also bring any supporting materials (e.g., lesson plan, teaching tools, samples of student work) that will enhance the class discussion.

*Note: For the week of your presentation, your critical friends will reflect and discuss the 10-15 minute long video on Edthena instead of doing the discussion board post. Like your weekly reflection, your responses to your colleague's video and reflection should be respectful, intellectually curious, and go beyond the superficial.

Community Mapping (September 21):

It is important for you to know your students, their families, and the surrounding community. Your job is to explore and learn about the community. You will create a "map" with the intent of figuring out where teenagers hang out and how they interact with the community. The following questions can help guide you:

1. What kinds of retail options are available in the community?
2. Are there recreational spaces (i.e. parks, community centers) for children and teenagers?
3. What grocery and food options are there?
4. What additional resources are available to the community (i.e. university, library)?
5. Are there local cultural (i.e. art centers, theaters), historical (i.e. historical plaques, archives) and environmental resources (i.e. city, state, or federal parks, zoo) in or near the community?
6. Additional resources or information that you think is necessary to know (i.e. traffic patterns, socioeconomics, racial mix in neighborhoods).

You will present your findings in a one to two pages. Be ready to also present your map and findings to the class. Here are some guiding questions to help you write your results:

1. Overall, what did you learn about the community?
2. What did you learn about the community that surprised you?
3. How could this assignment impact your teaching practices?
4. In what ways, if any, were your perceptions changed or enhanced by learning a little more about the community you work in?

Attendance Policy

Attendance in the course is mandatory. If you cannot come to a specific class session due to a schedule conflict, notify the instructor at least one week in advance for an excused absence. Attendance is tied into your participation grade. If you are not in class, you are not participating.

Late Work

Work is due on the announced due date. All late work will incur a penalty of 10 percent for each day late. The only exception to this is for those students with excused absences (see Attendance Policy above).

Grading Scale

All assignments are based on completion.

Assignment	Due Dates	Points	Percentage of final grade
Class participation	Weekly	60	30
