HDFS 200

University Catalog Course Description
Examines contemporary family life and the impact of government laws, policies, and programs on families over time and across contexts and cultures. Explores the intended and unintended consequences of policies for diverse families across a variety of policy matters, from anti-poverty and social welfare policies to health and environmental policies. Offered by Graduate School of Education. May not be repeated for credit.

Course Overview
This course fulfills the Writing Intensive requirement in the HDFS major. Please note the writing requirements for the course throughout the syllabus to include the 15-page family policy research and analysis paper due 12/3/18. The policy research and analysis paper will be completed through a draft/feedback/revision process. Your policy research tentative topic is due 9/10/18. Your final topic selection is due 10/1/18. Your abstract and paper outline are due 10/1/18. The first draft of your paper is due 11/5/18. I will provide commentary on the draft and the final version of your paper will be due on 12/3/18. We will discuss this writing assignment throughout the course. All students are expected to meet with me at least once during the semester to discuss your writing approach and outline for the paper.

Course Delivery Method
This course will be delivered using a lecture and discussion format.

Learner Outcomes or Objectives
This course is designed to enable students to do the following:
1. Develop an understanding of the ways in which families and government interact
2. Gain an understanding of family laws and policies that explicitly and/or implicitly impact families in US society by using policy research and analytical tools
3. Comprehend the definitions, approaches, and issues involved in family policy impact analysis and policy evaluation
4. Gain an understanding of family laws and policies in terms of their sensitivity to and supportiveness of diverse families using policy impact analyses
5. Develop an ability to apply a family perspective to policy-making and policy analysis
6. Expand their understanding of US policy by comparing and contrasting US family laws and policies to those of other countries
7. Improve their ability to utilize course concepts and tools in their research of family policies
8. Expand their intellectual curiosity, interest, and understanding of the ways in which policies impact or will impact their individual and family functioning

Professional Standards (National Council on Family Relations)
Upon completion of this course, students will have met the following professional standards: This course is aligned with the standards established by the National Council on Family Relations, focusing specifically on the “Family Law and Public Policy” content area, to include “an understanding of the legal issues, policies, and law influencing the well-being of families.”

Required Texts

Additional readings: See schedule below.

Recommended Texts

Course Performance Evaluation
Students are expected to submit all assignments on time in the manner outlined by the instructor (e.g., Blackboard, hard copy).

• Assignments and/or Examinations

I. Participation and Discussion Posts (15 points)
   Because active participation and engagement are imperative for optimal learning, preparation for and participation in in-class activities will be evaluated based on the following criteria:
   • Students attend class, arrive on time, and stay for the entire class period. Cell phone and laptop use related to coursework only, unless an emergency.
   • Students complete readings and prepare for class activities prior to class as is evidenced by their ability to discuss and write about the concepts presented and examined in the texts as well as participate fully in related activities.
   • Students are actively involved in in-class and online learning experiences as is evidenced by (1) participating in all activities in a professional and respectful manner, (2) engaging in small and large group discussions and in-class exercises, (3) completing written work related to the activities, and (4) supporting the participation and learning of classmates.
   • Students show evidence of critical reflective thinking through in-class and online discussions, activities, and written reflections. Go to mymason, http://mymason.gmu.edu, to login to Blackboard 9.1.

Discussion Posts (5 pts each)

• Students complete THREE out of FIVE discussion posts on Blackboard (BB):
   As noted on the course schedule, there are five opportunities to contribute to our discussion board on BB. Each week, a question will be posed for your consideration. You must complete three posts to get full credit. These posts are NOT regurgitations of the readings—they should be reflective, critical, and thoughtful responses to the questions posed. The posts should be at least three paragraphs in length (or approximately 250 words) and checked for grammar and cohesion of thought. Summaries are solo efforts and should not be worked on in groups. They are to be your own original work. If you use ideas from other sources, you should cite those sources throughout (e.g., “According to ___”). Plagiarism will be dealt with according to university conduct codes. Late posts will NOT be accepted without express permission from the instructor.

II. Midterm Exam (Total: 20 points)
   There will be one mid-semester multi-choice/short-answer/essay exam in this course to examine your comprehension of family policy terms, historical underpinnings, conceptual frameworks, and family policy matters. A discussion of the exam and review of key issues will be held prior to the examination.

III. Homework Assignments: (20 points)
   Abstract and Detailed Outline: 5 points
As noted on the syllabus schedule, please submit a 150-word abstract detailing your paper topic and a brief outline of the tentative contents of your final paper. The abstract/outline will likely change as you research your topic and further develop your ideas. However, this effort will facilitate forward movement with your work and will allow for our continued dialogue. All students are strongly encouraged to meet with me individually about your topic/paper outline.

In-Class Exercises: 10 pts (see course schedule)

Letter to Policymaker: 5 points
Select a cause, program, or pending legislation that is of interest to you. Write a 1-page letter to the appropriate public official at the local, state, or federal level to express your views and to ask for his/her support. Mail the letter and turn in a copy to the instructor. As an alternative, talk personally to this public official about your views. Attach his/her business card to your description of your communication (i.e., main points discussed, official’s response). An example letter will be offered in class prior to this assignment. If you want to complete this assignment before the due date—especially if the issue is pending in Congress and you want to act in a timely manner—please see me to discuss.

IV. Family Policy Research Paper and Presentation (45 points total)

Policy Research and Analysis Paper

DRAFT: 10 points; FINAL: 30 points

- Select a family policy or social problem in need of policy attention. Review the literature relevant to your topic to identify the historical, social, and political issues which might impact your policy topic (e.g., political movements, social trends, philosophies). Provide a description of the policy and activities associated with it and consider the impact of the policy on families (e.g., consider the intended and unintended consequences of your chosen policy for family functioning and well-being). Use the evaluation tools and family policy impact questions provided in class as a framework for conducting this analysis.

- Your paper should be typed, double-spaced (using 12-point font) and up to a maximum of 15 pages in length (including title page, abstract, and references). You are required to use a minimum of 10 professional sources (e.g., refereed journal articles, chapters from edited volumes)*. It is critical that you cite all sources (including government, think tank, and other related websites); understand what plagiarism means and how to avoid it. All citations should be referenced using APA format (6th edition)—if you are not familiar with this format, see me early on for pointers. This paper should be your own work, not a collaborative effort. Acts of plagiarism—whether intentional or unintentional—will be dealt with following GMU policy.

Below is an example format that your research paper might follow; however, recognize that each topic will most likely require additional or alternative subject headers, etc.

- Page 1: Title page—following APA style guidelines
• Page 2: Abstract (150 word summary)
• Pages 3-14: [You might include some of these elements…]
  - Policy Overview: Brief description of the policy under investigation
  - Review of Literature
    • Theoretical framework relevant to the topic
    • Historical and contextual underpinnings related to policy
    • Changing trends in family life/political climate
    • Family values—perspectives from the Right and Left
  - Analysis: Impact of Policy on Families
    • [Theoretical framework guiding analysis]
    • Research findings related to policy evaluation/family impact assessment—intended and unintended consequences for families
  - Discussion and Recommendations for future
• Pages 15: References in APA format (May be single spaced)

Student Presentations: 5 points
Students will present the findings of their research paper in brief to the class. These presentations will be informal. We will discuss this requirement in more detail in class.

*Examples of professional sources (e.g., refereed journal articles):

• Other Requirements

Written Assignments
All formal written assignments will be evaluated for content and presentation. The American Psychological Association, Sixth Edition (APA) style will be followed for all written work. All written work unless otherwise noted must be completed on a word processor and should be proofread carefully. (Use spell check!) If students are not confident of their own ability to catch errors, they should have another person proofread their work. When in doubt, they should check the APA manual. Portions of the APA manual appear at the Style Manuals link on the Mason library web guide at http://library.gmu.edu/resources/edu/. Students may consult the Writing Center for additional writing support. Students will do the following:

1. Present ideas in a clear, concise, and organized manner. (Avoid wordiness and redundancy.)
2. Develop points coherently, definitively, and thoroughly.
3. Refer to appropriate authorities, studies, and examples to document where appropriate. (Avoid meaningless generalizations, unwarranted assumptions, and unsupported opinions.)
4. Use correct capitalization, punctuation, spelling, and grammar.

Core Values Commitment
The College of Education and Human Development is committed to collaboration, ethical leadership, innovation, research-based practice, and social justice. Students are expected to adhere to these principles: http://cehd.gmu.edu/values/.

GMU Policies and Resources for Students

Policies

- Students must adhere to the guidelines of the Mason Honor Code (see https://catalog.gmu.edu/policies/honor-code-system/).

- Students must follow the university policy for Responsible Use of Computing (see http://universitypolicy.gmu.edu/policies/responsible-use-of-computing/).

- Students are responsible for the content of university communications sent to their Mason email account and are required to activate their account and check it regularly. All communication from the university, college, school, and program will be sent to students solely through their Mason email account.

- Students with disabilities who seek accommodations in a course must be registered with George Mason University Disability Services. Approved accommodations will begin at the time the written letter from Disability Services is received by the instructor (see http://ods.gmu.edu/).

- Students must follow the university policy stating that all sound emitting devices shall be silenced during class unless otherwise authorized by the instructor.
